It targets the regeneration of the shoulder girdle and trunk muscle tissue, as well as the hip flex muscles and knee extensor muscles. The muscle groups most used!	Its adjustable jets can have physiological effects with customised directions and strengths.	The armchair design provides relaxation after training; its physical and calming effect is an additional benefit to the physiological functions.	It offers its user an experience that is relaxing combined with a deep tissue massage on the longitudinal trunk muscles, whilst exercising the hip and thigh flexor muscle groups.	The massage seat with the most intensive physiological effect. In addition, it also has effects on lymphatic circulation on the lower limbs.	The most refreshing massage seat. The favourite of professional athletes. After intensive training, it ensures the regeneration of critical areas - the back and leg muscles.
